

Can you spot any key things included?

English-Wednesday 6th May 2020

Create a writer's toolkit

Can you think of the key things that make a newspaper?

What tense is it written in? How is it organised?

When you have created your toolkit can you look through the newspaper report and highlight them

Think about your own character that you created for your story. What did the character do that was shocking?

What did people say? Think of quotes that you could use in your newspaper report- don't forget to use inverted commas.

A large, rounded rectangular speech bubble with a blue outline and a tail pointing downwards and to the right. The interior of the bubble is divided into five horizontal sections by four thin blue lines, providing space for writing.A large, rounded rectangular speech bubble with a blue outline and a tail pointing downwards and to the left. The interior of the bubble is divided into five horizontal sections by four thin blue lines, providing space for writing.